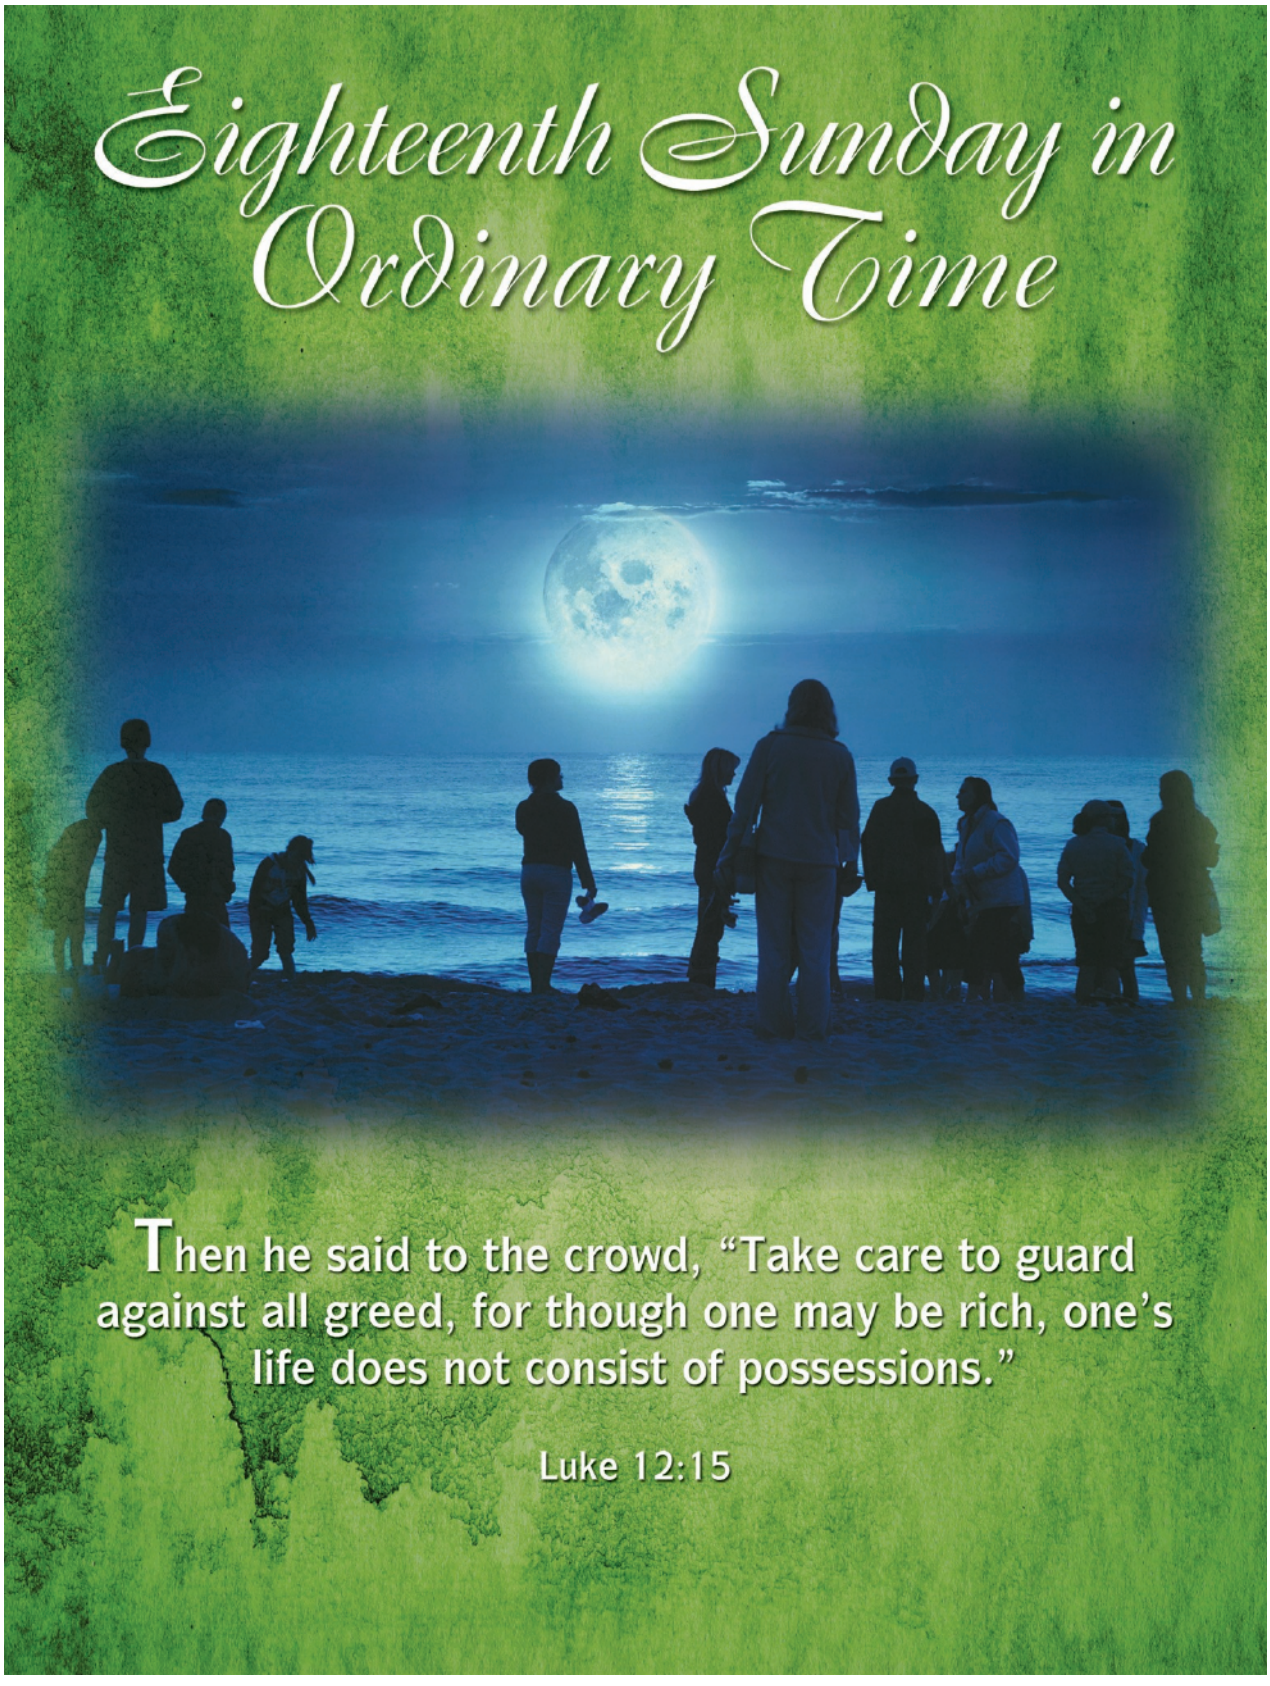
Eighteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time



Eighteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Ecclesiastes	1:2;2:21-23
Colossians	3:1-5,9-11
Luke	12:13-21

"Vanity of vanities" is an often quoted line. Qoheleth, the speaker in the first reading, seeing the reality of life and death, concludes that to amass wealth is futile sine we cannot take our material fortunes with us after death. Jesus tells the story of the man who had a good harvest and wanted to store it and save it. He not only wanted to save it, but to use it to enhance the style of his life. He became selfish. Through the parable Jesus teaches that possessions and wealth are not bad. Rather, it is what we do with our possessions that matters. If we share them, we are helping to create a relationships where we recognize that God is truly the source of all that we have and it is our responsibility to share what we have been given. St. Paul in addressing the Colossians in the second reading invites them as well to refocus their attention. In setting our hearts and focus on the riches of Christ rather than our own riches we will grow in the life of God.

From St. Vincent de Paul Society

Wow, what a month! Recent rolling layoffs, lost jobs and other family loses have negatively affected families' abilities to make ends meet. In June thirty families called and received assistance from St. Thomas St. Vincent de Paul Society. One call was from a lady who is in foreclosure with a lender who is unwilling to take catch up payments. The service for her was a referral to a local legal service agency. Others needed financial assistance to avoid eviction, keep utilities on or to reconnect them. Many of our visits also include connecting the needy to programs that can help them advance their education and careers. These visits would not be possible without your support.

A couple of months ago the "Change for Change" program was introduced. The way it works is very simple. Just drop any coins you or your family have into a jar or piggy band and when it is full, bring the coins to any weekend Mass and put them in the collection with a mark indicating St. Vincent de Paul. Why not make it fun by challenging your children, another family, coworkers or neighbors to find out who can accumulate the most change in a week or month while knowing that all funds are used for the poor.

OK runners and walkers: please mark your calendar for the Annual SVdP "Friends of the Poor" Walk. The walk will be Saturday, September 28, 2013. For more information, email ronhardgrove@yahoo.com.

Are you looking for a meaningful way to volunteer your time that really makes a difference in a person's life? We are always in need of new members. If you would like to join or obtain more information about this ministry, please call Mike Sims at 696-8237.

This weekend, August 4, there will be a collection after all Masses for St. Vincent de Paul. Thank you for your support.

St. Vincent de Paul also helps support the Food Pantry. The Pantry is very low on food. Please help by bringing items listed in the bulletin to the Food Pantry.

The St. Thomas Social Justice Committee will be hosting a BACKPACK Giveaway for students from Pierson Hills

We are asking for donations of NEW backpacks filled with the following supplies:

Pencils ___	Pocket Folders ____	Primary Notebooks ___	Loose-Primary Paper___
Scissors ____	Eraser ____	Markers ____
Colored Pencils	Pencil Pouch ____	Ruler_____
Glue ____	Black/Blue pens ___	Crayons ____

BACKPACKS can be brought to church and put in the large boxes in the gathering space. If you would rather have us do the shopping, please put your monetary donation in an envelope marked "Backpack" and put it in the Sunday collection or bring to the Parish Office.

We hope to once again, offer free haircuts at the event! If you are a barber/beautician and would like to offer your services please call the Volunteer phone number listed below.

Dear Prudence

By John Carr, Director of the Initiative on Catholic Thought and Public Life, soon to launched at Georgetown University. He served for many years as a Leader of the justice and peace efforts of the US conference of Catholic Bishops. Reprinted with permission from America Magazine

Beware those in Washington who minimize moral dimensions of issues by insisting that public choices are simply matters of "prudential judgment" and that therefore religious teaching and moral arguments are really not important. They emphasize the distinction between fundamental moral principles that have compelling moral claims (like the duty to protect innocent human life) and prudential judgments that are matters for debate (like how to overcome poverty).

The distinction is valid, but neither stands alone. We have a duty both to reject policies that violate fundamental principles and to pursue positive actions to carry out moral obligations. When advocates overemphasize these distinctions, they often ignore the moral urgency and ethical criteria for action that come with the principles they claim to respect.

The war in Iraq, a tragic "war of choice," was a prudential judgment. President George W. Bush and Congress ignored the appeals of Pope John Paul II and the moral questions of the U.S. bishops with horrible costs for our nation and the people of Iraq. How best to protect human life also involves prudential judgments. What measures are achievable? What exceptions, if any, are permissible (e.g., should a ban on federal abortion funding allow exceptions for the life of the mother, rape or incest)?

The duty to care for the "least of these" is essential Catholic teaching. We should be debating how to give priority to the poor, practice solidarity and subsidiarity. We should not be debating whether we are obliged to protect their lives and respond to their needs. Indifference and inaction are not prudential judgments, but violations of a core Catholic principle.

"Prudential judgment" can become a mistaken rationale for ignoring Catholic teaching that conflicts with our partisan or ideological preferences or to act on some principles and ignore others. Some resist racism or other denials of human rights but fail to protect the foundational rights to life and religious freedom. Others deeply committed to unborn human life resist the Catholic condemnation of torture or the church's call to end use of the death penalty. Pope Francis is challenging us to embrace the fullness of the Gospel, to resist isolation and ideology to protect the lives and dignity of all.

In the budget debate, elected leaders of the bishops' conference outlined Catholic moral principles and applied them to key budget choices. The bishops then shared the judgment that the House budget failed to meet the conference's criteria. (It included $36 billion in reductions for hungry families but no cuts for agricultural subsidies.)

Some mistakenly said the bishops were not speaking for the conference, that they ignored needed fiscal restraint or were advancing a partisan agenda. Others overplayed the statements, turning them into partisan talking points or attacks on the faith of individual legislators. Despite these distortions, the conference has chosen this wise path on immigration: outlining moral principles, offering applications on key policy choices and then assessing various proposals. They have made clear that inaction or just a bigger, longer fence or linking immigration to same-sex unions may be prudential judgments, but they are inconsistent with Catholic moral principles.

Catholic teaching is a coherent whole—not a menu of compelling moral absolutes, a set of fundamental ethical principles and a collection of optional positions. Bishops are not just another interest group, and their statements are not just another set of talking points. They deserve serious attention and action.

But they are not the whole church. Lay women and men need to become more informed and engaged in their vocation to be "salt, light and leaven" in public life. This is the mission of the new Initiative on Catholic Social Thought and Public Life at Georgetown University.

The recognition that public choices require prudence is not a way of escaping ethical responsibility; it is a call to principled discernment and decision-making. It is a beginning of moral discussion, not the end. Budget priorities and immigration reform are matters of both moral principle and prudence that reflect who we are as a people and shape what we will become as a nation. John Carr
